The University of Tsukuba aims to establish free exchange and close relationships in both basic and applied sciences with educational / research organizations and academic communities in Japan and overseas. While developing these relationships, we intend to pursue education and research to cultivate men and women with creative intelligence and rich human qualities. The University of Tsukuba endeavors to contribute to the progress of science and culture.

Formerly, Japanese universities tended to remain cloistered in their own narrow, specialized fields, creating polarization, stagnation in education and research and alienation from their communities. The University of Tsukuba has decided to function as a university which is open to all within and outside of Japan.

Toward this end, the university has made it its goal to develop an organization better suiting the functions and administration with a new concept of education and research highly international in character, rich in diversity and flexibility and capable of dealing sensitively with the changes occurring in contemporary society.

To realize this, it has vested in its staff and administrative authorities the powers necessary to carry out these responsibilities.

School of Comprehensive Studies

Students who enroll in the University through Comprehensive-Based Selection start their studies at the School of Comprehensive Studies, and choose their majors at the end of their first year.

In the School of Comprehensive Studies, there are three Study Groups, which consists of classes of 20 students each.

This program encourages students to gain a bird’s-eye view of the academic world while defining their own fields of specialization, and develop their own careers.

Graduate Schools

The University of Tsukuba offers Master’s Programs, Doctoral Programs and Professional Degree Programs. The Master’s Programs are not divided into the conventional specialized fields. They provide a broad-based interdisciplinary education aiming to produce professionals with academic and technical expertise and offering re-education opportunities for the general public. The Doctoral Programs aim to produce highly specialized researchers and research-oriented professionals in their respective fields, offering advanced education for cultivating a high degree of specialization based on extensive knowledge. Further, the Professional Degree Programs emphasize practical training and education. They aim at producing human resources with highly specialized professional abilities.

In Doctoral Programs, there are 3 types of studying: 1) graduate program divided into separate 2-year master’s and 3-year doctoral program, 2) Three-years Doctoral Program, 3) Five-year Consecutive Program.
